

The Life of Cicero, Vol. I

Anthony Trollope

LibriVox

Anthony Trollope

The Life of Cicero, Vol. I By Anthony Trollope (1815-1882)

Marcus Tullius Cicero (106-43BC) was an orator, statesman, philosopher and prolific correspondent, who rose as a 'new man' in Rome in the turbulent last years of its republican government. Anthony Trollope, best known as a novelist, admired Cicero greatly and wrote this biography late in life in order to argue his virtues against authors who had granted him literary greatness but questioned his strength as a politician and as a man. He takes a personal approach, affording us an insight into his own mind and times as well as those of his subject.

Volume I covers the period (up to the year 57BC) of Cicero's education, his rise through the courts and offices of state to the Consulship, and his exile.

Please note that footnotes – predominantly bibliographical citations and Latin quotations – are omitted unless explicitly referred to in the main text; the appendices, which consist mainly of more substantial extracts from other works, are likewise omitted. Summary by Philippa

Total running time: 10:57:34; read by Philippa. In addition to the reader, this audio book was produced by Karen Merline (dedicated proof-listener) & Anna Simon (meta-coordinator/cataloging).

This recording is in the public domain and may be reproduced, distributed, or modified without permission. For more information or to volunteer, visit librivox.org. Cover picture by Cesare MacCari (1889). Author picture taken by Napoleon Sarony (d. 1896). Copyright expired in US, Canada, EU and all countries with author's life +70 yrs laws. Cover design by Janette Brown. This design is in the public domain.

The Life of Cicero, Vol. I

The Life of Cicero, Vol. I

Anthony Trollope